

Online

As a leader in flexible schedules for all learners, Mount Mercy University is pleased to offer two exciting online bachelor's degree programs in business and human resource management. These online programs provide another avenue for learners to pursue an education built upon the Mercy values of service and leadership. The programs also allow students with some college or an associate's degree to earn their bachelor's degree quickly and affordably. Classes are offered in nine, five-week blocks during the academic year and are taught by faculty members who can connect you with alumni and community leaders who can help you advance in your career.
